Fire Chief Croker turned in a second alarm and ordered the windows smashed to prevent the suffocation of the horses. Lieut. The flames shot in a circle around the firemen, completely cutting them off from the exit. They might have escaped by making a dash for it, but prefegred to stick to their posts and fight the flames. There they remained hemmed in by fire until Chief Groker relieved them. Twenty companies were employed. During the blaze it was thought necessary as a precaution to clear out the people from the surrounding tenements. This was done by Capt. Gannon with reserves.

"Pickwick" Right Clothing.

It's the fit of the "Pickwick" Clothing that merits the greatest attention. As every size and shape man can be fitted, it is no longer necessary for you to accommodate the requirements of your form-no matter what your size-to stock conditions.

"Pickwick" Suits.

Fifteen Dollars is a popular price. Probably more Suits are sold at this figure than at any other two. The "Pickwick" $15.00 Suits are better by far than you've ever known Clothing to be at this price.

They are not only excellently tailored, and perfect as to fit (every proportion in every size) but there's that custom made character to every garment. The range of patterns is particularly large and choice, embracing scores of swagger and natty effects in Worsteds, Cassimeres and Cheviots, besides blues and blacks in both smooth and rough fabrics. You'll frankly admit the value to be very considerably more.

Of course you look for better quality at this price-and of course you get it. Better quality of cloth, finer linings, trimmings, &c. But the fit is the same, no matter what the price. If it is as perfect as skill, ingenuity and experience can make it—why, then one cannot look fur-

Our $20.00 "Pickwick" Suits are on a par with the $30.00 to $35.00 productions of the high-class custom tailor; in every respect they are as good. Then, of course, you may select from a range of patterns many times as big as you could ever hope to see at your tailor's. There's considerable advantage in that. Don't forget—no matter what

At this price you, of course, look for something exceptionally good. And we'll not disappoint you, no matter how high you may place your expectations. He must be a good tallor indeed who will equal for $50.00 our "Pickwick" Suits at $25.00. There's not an iota of exaggeration in that statement. One look will convince you of its veracity.

In the field of ready-to-put-on clothing there is nothing to compare with these $25.00 "Pickwick"

The first complete article actually setting forth the true facts and possibilities of such an event is within your grasp on Sunday. You should not miss reading it unless you have no interest in the subject. If you haven't any interest in it you must be a Polar bear, and Polar bears can't read,

HE modish maiden had been reading astronomy, and had probably fallen in love with her ideal of a Martian, as evolved from the descriptions of that character by certain well-known but overimagining star-gazers. Nowadays, when an astronomer watches the planet Mars through a telescope for any length of time he begins to see things Some of them, for instance, have discerned great creatures looking like Devils' Darning Needles. Others have seen big red gentlemen, &c., &c. Of course—ahem—we wouldn't suggest that the alcoholic ward would be :.

good place for—perish the thought!

No doubt the astronomers know what they are talking about. At any rate, out comes Prof. George W. Hough, of the Northwestern University, with a few new theories that will excite your wonder. If what he believes to be true of the Martians can ever be proved we will find that our next-down neighbors are a remarkable lot. It will be to your advantage. In door neighbors are a remarkable lot. It will be to your advantage, in case you should ever meet a Martian on the street, to read Prof. Hough's

HINK of the pleasurable sensa-tions of a father who watches his boy grow up in the confihis boy grow up in the confidence of men and finally attain high position, with even promise of great-er things to come! Fancy, then, how pleased the father of Gov. Odell must be to have seen his Gubernatorial offspring turn down Senator "Boss" Platt a little while ago! In an interview given just after the Republican State Convention Mr. Odell, sr., has teld exactly what he thinks and has always thought about his son, and has talked about him just as though he were an ordinary mortal instead of the new Republican boss of New York State.

HEY gave the leopard thirty days, The lion eighteen years. Ten dollars fine for the elephant,

The jaguar went to jail for life, Which must have made him sad; And the Judge took thirty days himself,

S EEMS scarcely possible that animals could be classed criminals. And yet it is so. Why, from the grinning little mon-key who reaches out and grabs your hat to the elephant who will trample you to death if you irritate him, the New York Zoo is full of four-legged rascals of the worst type. Alligators, elephants, tigers, buffalo, monkeysthe woods, or, rather, the cages-are full of outlaws who are lucky in being only in prison instead of the electric chair. Dan Smith, who has achieved fame as an animal artist, has just been through the Zoo and produced a series of sketches in color that depict the Zoo's worst criminals in a lifeike manner.

S AID he, "I guess I'll write a book; But first I'll make the press On which it can be printed, and The paper, too, I guess.

The ink, of course; the pictures, too I wonder how they'll look. And when I've done all these, why, then I'll start to write the beck."

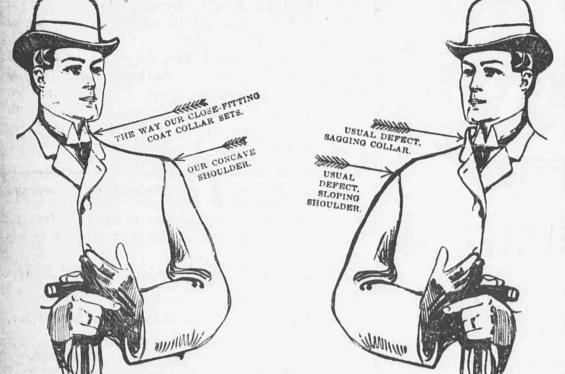

ATHER a hard contract, you will say, for an author to do all these things. But sometimes there comes up a genius to whom nothing is so difficult as waiting for the people to do things for him. Rudyard Kipling is one of these. To those who know anything about this wonderful man, the fact that he himself has illustrated his new book, "The Just So Stories," the news will not be surprising. But when they see the pictures they will be startled by their excellence. Why, Theodore Roosevelt and the Emperor William had better go to kindergarten and learn versatility when compared to Kipling, as revealed by his latest "stunt." Just you look at the pictures (those in the advertisement are not the ones) and read Kipling's quaint descriptions of what they represent, and you will be charmed.

Kipling's pictures, of course, are good, but you will find others alongside of them on other pages of next Sunday's World that will interest you will be of varied and unusual importance and well worth your while perusing. For instance—but more of this to-morrow. At any rate, wait for
